

Hogan Lovells UK pension training programme – January to December 2022

March 2022

Dates for your diary

Uncertainty surrounding COVID 19 means that we do not know when we will be allowed to run seminars at our London office again. At present, we are proposing to run training on the following dates – though this may be subject to change.

When we can, we plan to run a combination of online and in-person training. We look forward to welcoming you!

19 January 2022 at 10am – Recent developments in pensions

Our regular webinar aimed at trustees and sponsors of occupational pension schemes and their advisers. Speakers from the Hogan Lovells pension team covered: transfers and the new scam protection regulations; increasing normal minimum pension age; updates on the Pensions Regulator and a recent case. 2 March 2022 at 10am – Climate change and pensions

Speakers from EY-Parthenon and XPS will join us to consider the impact of climate change on pension schemes and the employer covenant – and what trustees should be doing in response. This seminar will be run online. To view the webinar recording on-demand, click here.

More details and formal invitations will be sent out nearer to the events. Please email us on events.uk@hoganlovells.com if you would like to pre-register for a place at any of the events above or if there are any pension-related topics you would like us to cover in future training.

We also run one-off seminars and workshops on topical issues where we believe this would be helpful. We are always happy to arrange bespoke training focusing on an individual client's particular issues, held at our offices or at the client's site where this is more convenient.

If you would like to join our mailing list for seminar invitations and pensions content, please email Niamh.moore@hoganlovells.com.
