

Cybersecurity: Mobility and Transportation

What's happening

- Cyber risk continues to increase: more attacks and greater sophistication.
- One of the top risks facing companies.
- Many new cyber laws and regulations.

Why

- More opportunity: mobility platforms need more interconnectivity.
- Cybercrime is highly profitable. Attackers are often paid.

Why it matters

- Costs associated with cyberattacks are rising.
- Increased scrutiny of Boards and CEOs.
- Expected standard of care is increasing so must understand cyber risk posture.

What we do

- We help businesses and business leaders protect themselves.
- We assess the cyber threat profile, obligations and risk globally via integrated legal and technical counseling.
- We advise at all stages of the cybersecurity lifecycle, from readiness to response to litigation, all under legal privilege.

How we can help

Cyber Assessment

Perform high-level cyber assessment, to confirm understanding of threat profile, and assess the current level of readiness to manage cyber risk and respond to a cyber incident.

Incident Response Plan

Enhance incident response plan and processes, based on our experience advising on hundreds of large cyberattacks.

Tabletop Exercises

Facilitate tabletop exercises based on realistic scenarios tailored to threat profile and industry, including for senior management and Board.

Board-level briefings and updates

Data Governance

Create and update data governance strategies, both from a regulatory and contractual perspective.

Incident Response

Manage all aspects of incident response from a legal perspective, including crisis management, forensics oversight, communications strategy, law enforcement coordination, threat actor interactions, and other tasks.

Cyber Attack Support

Coordinate regulatory notifications globally in the event of a cyberattack or data breach.

Represent and vigorously defend cases post-cyberattack in court or in civil and regulatory proceedings.
